PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Dear AACE® Toronto members and supporters,
Welcome to our first newsletter of the year!

I wanted to start off by highlighting a record turnout to our last AACE technical seminar meeting held on October 26, 2011 at George Brown College. Gary Kramer, Senior Associate with Hatch Mott MacDonald spoke about Tunnel Construction – An Estimating Perspective. There were 80 people who attended and enjoyed the technical seminar. Our hats off to Gary for his stellar presentation.

Aside from the large contingent of members, there were many new faces and students, which was very encouraging. We encourage the participation of AACE members as well as other professionals in the design and construction industry.

The board is busy with upcoming plans for the year, planning events and initiatives. This is an opportunity for all of you to send us any feedback on whatever topics would be of interest for our dinner meetings, or perhaps an event or initiative which would be of interest.

All correspondence can be forwarded to either myself or other directors on the board. We are always open to feedback and comments from our membership, and associates.

For students, I encourage you to attend our seminars and use the opportunity to learn about some of our exciting topics, as well as interact and network within our events.

I look forward to seeing all of you at the next upcoming technical seminar.

Best Regards,

David Colangelo
President AACE Toronto Section

AAACE TECHNICAL SEMINARS

Most Recent Seminar – Tunnel Construction – An Estimating Prospective

The AAACE Toronto Section held a Technical Seminar on October 26, 2011 hosted by George Brown College. The seminar had a great turnout with over 75 people in attendance.

The guest speaker was Gary Kramer, P. Eng, P.E. Senior Associate at Hatch Mott McDonald, and the topic for the event was Tunnel Construction – An Estimating Perspective. It was an interesting presentation involving the history of tunnel construction as well as the cutting edge technology used to minimize environmental impact. The presentation had a great local flair that included projects currently underway within the GTA. Tunnel engineering and construction is a unique division within the industrial engineering field where the basis of estimating is focused on task sequencing and duration as compared to quantity or volume based calculations.

Upcoming Seminar – A Dashboard that Suits the Purpose

The next Technical Seminar is scheduled for Wednesday November 30, 2011, hosted by Hatch Ltd at 2800 Speakman Drive, Mississauga.

The guest speaker for this event will be Juan Gallegos. Juan has extensive experience in Cost Engineering, Planning, and Projects Controls within the Mining, Petrochemical, Metallurgy, Civil, and Waste Management industries. The seminar topic will focus on the key concepts and fundamentals required for designing a Project Dashboard.

Please RSVP to info@aacetonoronto.ca if you wish to attend this event.
